Dosperate Struggle between a Murderer and the Policia bout half-past 2 a.m. of the 2nd September Charles Autoine, proprietor, azed 31, reding at Plainfainz, in the Vueges, fired at his ife, the bullet penetrating the right arm. He en fired at his wife's consin, Paule Claude. god 17, the ball passing through ber body. On bearing the police station, a body gendarines repaired to the spot, and after ending the wounded women to a doctor's ouse they proceeded to arrest the musiever. ney found him armel to the teeth and harriided. When he saw the gendarages approachno he said "Do not approach; my doublearrolled gan is loaded and also my double. earrelled pistol. I warn you that I will fair before I yield. Seeing that he vas determined not to surrender, Bizatare orders to the police to land. Viry d Bourroux, followed by a police commissioner, entered the house whilst Bizot and Cliny watched the only passage by which Antoine could encupe. Antoine fired twice brough the flooring of the first story but the pullets remained imbudded in the wood. The rendirm's replied by two shots. The police commissioner then ordered some struw to be lighted, which forced Aptoins to come to the window, from which he fired two shots at Bizot ind Cliry. He was fired at in return, and was oft on the left side and in the arm. But he onneged to escape down a cellar, where it was langerous to pursue him. A freeh, fire was cindled near the mouth of the editar, but fearng that he would be sufficiated. Viry and the police commissioner boidly descended into the struggle, although be was half dead from the fumes. The struggle between Autoine and the solice continued for some hours. dission of these crimes.

In his letter of Septemb T 10th, the Paris correspon tent of the Pall Mall G exite says:—
The Emperor came to Paris, and it would astonish none if, instead of going to Biarrits, te were to remain at St. Cloud. It is said: lowever, that be will set but for his marine residence in a few days, and that he will be risited by Marahal Michiga, and in the mantime Marshals Cour dest and Niel will through the French embissy at Berlin gives an unfavorable account of Count Bismark's bealth; the Count can only obtain rest by re-sorting to brandy, and dolle um iranged is feared. The Prassian ambasiador here. Baron Gulta, is about to be replace Lin consequence of ill-health.-The same mysterious hand which as on several occursions resently written ing explanations of French policy in be Début, has favoured us with three columns this muraing. The writer endeavours to reasure us by declaring that the Great lowers have every interest to avoid war, which neets with no favour on the part of Buropean opulations. He admits, however, that a wirke policy is arged on the Emperor by the my, and by friends who think that the Emre should live by fighting and conquest. He enice that France desires to to avenue andown. with which viot by she had no hing to do; she say neither the ally of Austria, nor the enemy Prussia and could have no interest in atempting to undo what has been accomplished ith her consent. The writer calls on France o listen rather to the peaceful assurances riven by M. Magno than to the words attribu-ted to Marshal Nicl. THE FRENCH FLEET.-It appears that four rigates, seven corvettes, four guardacostus, and nie floriting battery are now bein ; built in the different military ports of France—in all sixhe French navy are 316 in number, of a total force of 73,000 horses. The immeded fleet, now composed of twenty-eight vessels fall kinds. will consist of forty four whom the sixteen now building are completed. A model chip, of apperior strength to may be fleet now possessin, and to the called the Richelion, will shortly be out on the stricks at Toulon. THE CAMP AT CHALORS. - The Monitour de Armse says that thirteen grand municurves mye tuken phace at Châlons, and that all were very interesting. Not less so was the infantry practice at the target, and the competition bewere the best shots of each corps. In certain regiments forty five marksmen his the mark six med with their six bullets at five hundred to hundred metres; fifteen hit it five times net of six, and the rest four times out of six. The experiments made with a line of pating representing the front of a battution. anabled a battalion to show what remarkable results could be produced in a few minutes at from 200 to 900 metres distance. One of these was that, even when incorrectly estimating the listance by one half, the fire was very effective, and even at I.000 metres it produced a serious officet. The Monttour det Jones says that these yar one experiments "deeply interest both officers and men, and give them fresh confidence: in their arm." The Emperor, when about to leave the camp of Chalous gave or lers that no military honouse should be paid to him at the time of his departure. The troops, therefore, were not under arms on that occasion. The cortige approaching they hastened once more to salute his Majesty and the Prince Imperial with their warmest cheers." If Eleit hard says that the Emperor, upon leaving the eamp, addressed the following speech to to the generals at the railway station :- " I felt very happy during the eight days which I have passed among you. I say nothing more to you, because the newspapers would be sure to drag prognostications of war from my words, however understethey might be. I therefore confine my. your zeal and your devotion, generals and corps commanders alone formed a mounted escort for the Emperor on his way to the railway station. When the soldiers saw the self to giving expression to my satisfaction with "Before leaving the camp at Chalons," says the Siecle, "the Emperor presented each colonel. in a case marked with initials, a revolver of a new model, and tee weapons of the same kind are to be distributed amongst so many officers of each regiment selected by lot." FRANCE AND ROME. The Paris correspondept of the Times says it is positively state!

that "there has been very resent telegraphic correspondence between the Emperor Napoleon and Victor Emmanuel with respect to the evamation of Rome. The King is said to have strongly urged upon his Imperial brother the necessity of withdrawing his troops, whose further sojourn would place thim in a most diffi-cult position. In raply the Emperor is stated to have expressed his great regret that such should be the case, I ro have at the same time declared that compliance with the request was impossible, for remains connected with his policy In answer, the King is said to have again represented to the Emperor the yery difficult position made for him by this resolve.
